WORDS THAT COUNT.

Carrollton, Ky., Nov. 19, 1913.
Kentucky Irish American.
Louisville, Ky.—Dear Sirs: Inclosed find check for $1 subscription to August 23, 1913.
Pardon me for not sending sooner. Think your paper better than ever, and is doing a lot of good for Catholicism.
Yours very truly,
C. A. HILL.

HAVE A CARE.

This is the season of the year when Louisville becomes afflicted with fake "sample" or cheap stores.
They are conducted by slick itinerant bunco men who are simply here for a holiday clean-up. Our readers are warned to beware of them. Do your Christmas shopping with the merchants who are with us the year round.

GOOD NEWS.

Latest dispatches from Belfast, Ireland, are that Premier Asquith intends the home rule bill to pass into law as it now stands. That is what he told a delegation of Ulster Liberals on Wednesday. The delegation visited him to protest against the exclusion of Ulster from the provisions of the measure. This means that the Irish Parliament that will meet in Dublin next year will represent a united Ireland, with a government that will grant justice to all its subjects. This last declaration should forever settle the question of Ireland gaining home rule.

QUITE A CONTRAST.

With an audience composed of the Junior Order of United American Mechanics last Sunday evening Rev.
David Bruning, pastor of the German Evangelical church, on West Third, spoke on the readable in the public schools that the Bible is not literature and all objections of the grounds of sectarianism are false, referring of course to the objections of Jews and Catholics to the reading of the Protestant Bible in the schools. The attention of the speaker is called to the more dignified and liberal sentiments of Rev. Dr. W. W. Landrum, pastor of the Broadway Baptist church, who expressed himself as follows:

"The Bible, some say, is not a sectarian book, but God's word, the only revelation of his will meant for all and unfair and unkind to none. Others loudly declare that the Bible is not a Protestant book, but broadly Christian, and so should be acceptable to all Christians and indeed to all good men. In reply I wish to affirm with distinctness and positiveness that if, by the Bible, you mean the English version, the King James version usually read in Protestant churches, then the Bible, beyond question, is a Protestant translation. With equal confidence I say that the Douay version of the Vulgate is a Roman Catholic translation used by the Roman Catholics only, and declared by them to be the only true version of the original Scriptures. If then I put in the schools my Bible by force, and all action by Government is force, for in the last analysis all governments rest on force, I violate the law of love. I do not treat my brother as I would have my brother treat me."

Between the two views expressed above all sensible and fair-minded men are bound to coincide with Dr.
Landrum, but possibly Rev. Bruning was endeavoring to please the Junior audience, who are great opponents of sectarianism in case an opportunity is given to vent their A. P. A. spen upon the Catholics.

CATHOLIC UNIVERSITY.

Cardinal Gibbons makes an earnest appeal for the Catholic University, for which the annual collection will be taken up on the first Sunday in Advent. The following extract from the Cardinal's letter brings before the people the importance of this collection:

"As the first Sunday in Advent draws nigh, the day on which our Catholic people are wont to contribute to the annual collection for the Catholic University of America, I am moved to appeal most earnestly to the members of our American hierarchy, and to our clergy and people, for a continuance of the support they have so generously given us in the past. This support has made it possible for the university to live through the trying period of infancy and to reach the present conditions in which it has become an honor to our Catholic people, a visible source of public benefits of the highest order, an evidence that American Catholics appreciate the practical uses of a higher education given under the auspices of our venerable religion, and are willing and anxious to make great sacrifices for it in the interest of both Church and State. Our Holy Father Pius X. is most deeply concerned for the present growth and the future development of our university, in which he recognizes one of the principal agencies of Holy Church for the formation of a highly cultivated priesthood and a great body of laymen properly trained in all departments of learning, and deeply devoted to the interests of the Catholic religion in our beloved country."

HITS HARD.

Dr. Thomas O'Hagan, noted Catholic writer, scoring the Catholic press, regrets that the "reading of Catholic journals or the purchasing of Catholic books has not at all yet become a chronic habit with our Catholic people, nor has the appreciation of Catholic journalism yet become so marked that the Catholic editor is regarded worthy of a salary larger than that of a paperhanger or stenographer." The necessity for an able and well supported Catholic press called from him the thought that "a little persecution might do the Catholics of this country some good, and it may indeed come sooner than we think. The secular press does not really care a fig for us except so far as we touch its pocketbook. Take for instance the shameful crusade on against the church during the past two years by such sheets as the Menace. The powerful secular dailies that pose as moral arbiters and impartial guides and claim to hold the conscience of the people in their keeping have had scarcely a word of rebuke or criticism for the viperous crew that have been and are engaged in this nefarious and un-American work. Why have they been silent when nearly a quarter of our American citizens have been assailed, maligned and misrepresented? Are the few dollars of bigots coming to their coffers of more worth to them than the triumph of truth and justice? The secular press of this country, if it wished, could put such sheets as the Menace out of business in one month. Why does it not do so?"

SHOULD NOT FORGET.

We remind our readers of the fact that they should not forget their duty to the merchants and their clerks in the matter of early Christmas shopping. It is now but a few weeks to Christmas and the bulk of the Christmas buying should be done at least the week before.
It is the persons who have no sympathy for the clerks in the store who defer their Christmas buying to the two or three days just before the great Christmas holiday. Make a special effort this year to complete all your Christmas buying early, and if we all accomplish this we will have given the movement for closing the stores on Christmas eve a great boost.

JUSTLY BARRED.

Chicago recently started to teach sex hygiene to the children in her public schools. Doctors are giving the lectures. The "National League for Medical Freedom" decided to educate the parents on the subject and concluded to send copies of the same talks to them. The postal authorities refuse to send the lectures through the mails. In the face of this some persons still declare that it can not hurt the children to hear these instructions. The stuff is too filthy to go through Uncle Sam's channels, yet it is being poured into the minds of innocent youngsters. Faddists might stand for this, but God won't.

Cardinal Seraphin Vannutelli, Subban of the Sacred College, was seventy-nine years old Tuesday.
From the hierarchy in all parts of the world he received messages of congratulation.

Only another week remains for making the jubilee. The condition imposed for its making are easy, and every Catholic should obtain the blessings imparted.

One of the happiest of the

NOMINATIONS.

Mackin Connell, Y. M. I., had the largest attendance of the year at the meeting Monday night, brought out by the proposition to create the office of Resident Secretary at a salary of $600 per year and the nomination of officers. President Frank Adams occupied the chair and obligated nine new members, while three others were elected and seven reported favorably. Seb. Dittmer was reported ill, his being the only name new on the list. The proposition to pay the Secretary $600 and remain regularly at the club house was discussed at length and met with favor, but that the by-law governing the office might be safely drawn the amendment was referred to a committee composed of Charles Ralby, Robert T. Burke, John T. Kenney, Ben Sand and W. A. Link, who will report Monday night. After the unanimous selection of Rev. Francis Felten, of St. Augustine's church, as Chaplain, the following were placed in nomination for the election to be held at the next meeting:

There are 168 priests and 255 churches, with twenty-six colleges and academies, orphan asylums, hospitals, homes for aged poor, Indian schools, houses of the Good Shepherd, homes for working girls, and a Catholic population of over 90,000.

HEAVY MATERNITY BONUS.

A return for the past twelve months shows that claims under the Australian maternity bonus act passed by the Labor Government have been paid to the amount of $607,915. Every woman in Australia, on the birth of a child, can claim a bonus of $5, but it was not intended or expected that mothers in good circumstances would claim the amount. Very many of them, however, have done so, and that accounts for so large an expenditure. It was intended that the bonus should be applied for only by those in necessitous circumstances, and the Labor Government purposely made no discrimination in order to avoid the exposure of people's poverty, as would have been the case if class distinction had been made in the operation of the law. Because the bonus can be claimed by every mother it is contended there is no justification of its being availed of by well-to-do persons who come upon the State for maternity expenses which they can well bear themselves.

ALTAR A RELIC.

An interesting relic of the old Indian mission days is to be found in the basement chapel of St. Francis Xavier's, the collegiate church of St. Louis University. It consists of a wooden altar, dedicated to Mary Immaculate, which dates back to the year 1700, perhaps even to an earlier date. Not a nail was used in its construction, wooden pegs being employed instead. It is a substantial structure, elaborately ornamented with carved woodwork. The tabernacle door has neither lock nor hinges. This altar was once the property of the Kaskaskia Mission in Illinois, nearly opposite the present St. Genevieve. This settlement, long since washed away by the waters of the Mississippi, was the principal settlement of the Kaskaskia Indians to whom Father Marquette first brought the light of faith. Perhaps the altar in question was used by Fathers Allouez and Rasle, of the Society of Jesus, who labored among these Indians toward the end of the seventeenth century. Thus today the holy sacrifice is offered up on the same altar which may have been used by these saintly men, who shed their blood in spreading the glad tidings of Christianity to our red-skinned brothers.

The printing trade all over the country is justly proud of the institution, which is one of the best equipped of its kind in the world.

MOCK TRIAL.

Seldom has anything occurred at Trinity Council more replete with educational and comical features, or that was more appreciated, than the mock trial held Monday night under the auspices of the Literary Committee. The regular meeting was called to order at 7:30 o'clock and the necessary business hurriedly transacted, after which an open meeting was declared. When Judge Eugene Cooney called the moot court to order there was a capacity crowd present to hear the case of John L. Cuniffe against a big railway corporation. It is needless to say that the examination of Cuniffe as witness in his own behalf afforded much comedy while that of Dr. Lammers was equally enjoyed. The plaintiff had for attorneys Benedict Elder, Edward Kelly and J. C. Kirchdorfer, the last named making quite a hit as an "attorney." Notwithstanding the fact that the defendant was ably represented by attorneys Albert P. Martin and Benj. J. Sandmann, the jury returned a verdict for the plaintiff. To add to the realistic appearance of the "case," John J. Sandmann and John F. Lally, who serve respectfully as deputy and clerk in the Circuit Court, were acting in the same positions in the moot court, and their presence facilitated the proceedings considerably. Trinity is being congratulated upon the successful production of this "trial." During the evening a number of membership applications were filed, which assures a good class for the January initiation in New Albany. Next Monday night Trinity will nominate and elect officers for the year 1914, and another exciting meeting is looked for.

BERLIN HAS THE BLUES.

According to authoritative reports the big department stores in Berlin, Germany, are going to have the poorest Christmas in years. Usually by this time the stores have begun adding to the number of their employees and shopping is in full swing, but no extra help has been taken on so far and the shopping is far below the average of former years. Tight money is said to be causing even those usually very liberal with gifts to curtail their expenditures this time. The industrial depression, resulting in an immense army of unemployed since last spring, is keenly felt in Berlin, where building is at a complete standstill owing to the impossibility of borrowing money on real estate and buildings. This means that thousands of Berlin workers and their families will not have even a semblance of Christmas celebration. More than 10,000 men and women who usually are able to earn extra pay for six weeks by the demand for extra help will be disappointed this year.

GAYETY THEATER.

The story of a man who threw away everything—happiness, social position and fortune—for the sake of an unworthy but fascinating woman, will be told at the Gayety Theater next week in the drama, "A Fool There Was." Warner Oland plays Robert Hilliard's original part of the Fool. It is an intense character and is excellently taken, especially in the scene where the husband attempts to throw all the blame for his downfall on the woman. This is the second time in its history that the play will be shown at popular prices, and those who go to the Gayety during its engagement will find the drama well staged and enacted by a thoroughly capable cast.

SILVER JUBILEE.

Last Sunday morning Adjutant General Clement Wiegand, of the Knights of St. John, and his estimable wife, who was Miss Marie Stengel, celebrated the twenty-fifth anniversary of their marriage with a high mass at St. Boniface church, where they were surrounded by friends and well wishers. The worthy couple are widely known in Catholic fraternal and society circles, and during the afternoon and evening many called at their home to extend congratulations and wish that they might live to celebrate their golden jubilee anniversary.

CHARITY SUNDAY.

Charity Sunday will be observed in every Catholic church in Denver on January 4. Special sermons on charity will be delivered that day. This followed a meeting recently of the Denver pastors, and the idea has been approved by Bishop Matz. A better system for handling the Catholic charity work was also determined upon at the meeting. The St. Vincent de Paul Society will be organized in every parish in the city.

FORTY HOURS.

FATHER OF LABOR DAY.

George McGuire, long prominent in labor circles and known as the "father of Labor day," died Saturday at Manchester, N. H. McGuire was a cigarmaker and first made the suggestion of a labor holiday at a labor convention in Chicago in 1884. He continued to urge the suggestion at later conventions until observance of the day became general.

HIBERNIANS.

What They Have Been Doing the Past Week—General News Notes.

Division 4 will nominate and elect officers at the next meeting.
St. Louis City Hibernians raised $264.50 for the Irish home rule fund.
Omaha Hibernians will henceforth receive holy communion in a body every three months instead of once a year.
Milwaukee Hibernians met and honored the memory of the Manchester martyrs—Allen, Larkin and O'Brien.
Irish night for the Hibernians of Manchester, N. H., was a great success and added handsomely to their treasury.
Toledo Hibernians held a bazar last week to raise funds for the entertainment of the Ohio State convention next July.

New York City Hibernians are after the play called "Gen. John O'Regan," which misrepresents both Irish priest and people.

National Treasurer Thomas Maloney, Mayor of Council Bluffs, has been in New York and Philadelphia on business for the order.

The Omaha division has appointed a committee to take up the proposition of acquiring a building site for the erection of a home for the order in that city.

The auxiliary and division of Little Falls, N. Y., held a joint meeting and had as honor guest Rev. Thomas Flanagan, of Troy, who delivered an eloquent address.

Division 2 will meet next Thursday night at Thirteenth and Oak. This will be an important session, and therefore every member is called upon to be present.

Resulting from the membership campaign five candidates were initiated and three applications read at last week's meeting of Division 1 of Manchester, N. H.

Division 1 meets Tuesday night and there should be a large attendance. It is expected the time will be set for the election of officers and also for the next initiation.

Division 3 has sent out cards calling upon members to be present at the meeting Monday night, when officers will be elected. There will also be other important business.

Rev. P. O'Connell, of San Francisco, is recounting some interesting present-day facts about the old country for the Coast Hibernians, gleaned while spending the past summer in Ireland.

Celebrating the increase of membership, Division 3 had one of the largest audiences that ever graced the South St. Paul City Hall. This division will initiate another large class the first of the coming year.

Monday night the Hibernians of Mobile, Ala., had a novel and enjoyable Thanksgiving entertainment for themselves and friends. Special invitation was sent the Kentucky Irish American. Joseph C. Sullivan was Chairman and distributed many turkeys.

Seventy-five candidates were initiated into Division 1 at Portland, Ore., on November 16. State and county officers were present and the State and County Chaplains assisted at the ceremonies, which were followed by an elaborate banquet presided over by J. J. Kenny as toastmaster.

There should be a large attendance at the meeting of the Ladies' Auxiliary at Falls City Hall next Wednesday night, when the annual election of officers takes place. Misses Katie Nolan and Maggie Hourigan have displayed marked executive ability and their administration has been most successful.

Lincoln High School Auditorium at Portland, Ore., did not have seating capacity for the Hibernian Patriots' day celebration last Sunday night. It was an Irish night by Irish people, who paid tribute to the illustrious men of their race. Rev. Father Leffen delivered an eloquent address on the Irish patriots in America.

FISKE O'HARA COMING.

Fiske O'Hara, in Augustus Pitou, Jr.'s, splendid production of "In Old Dublin," is announced as the attraction at Macauley's Theater the first half of next week. The reports of the performances that have heralded its coming are extremely flattering to both star and the play. It is a pretty and romantic tale of life in the Irish capital during the early part of the nineteenth century, when the race course and yachting brought the cream of the sporting aristocracy from all parts of Europe to Ireland. As Neil Powers, a young designer of boats, fighting the intrigues of the Dublin Castle set, Mr. O'Hara gives an impersonation of the most fascinating of characters. His rare personality, wonderful musical talent and intelligent analysis of such roles make him unique as an actor and easily the best in his line today. He brings a company of unusual strength and in which are many players of recognized ability. The scenery and costumes are said to be unusually fine. The performances of Mr. O'Hara have been attended by large theater parties of the Knights of Columbus and the A. O. H. all over the country and have given untold satisfaction to all lovers of good, clean Irish plays of merit. Mr. O'Hara is a member of both orders and his manager, Myles Murphy, is the well known Irish antiquarian and historical writer. A successful engagement in Louisville may be safely prophesied for Mr. O'Hara and his clever company.

WALNUT THEATER.

The high class photo play pictures and excellent vaudeville presented at the Walnut-street Theater continues to draw large and well pleased audiences every afternoon and night. Manager Hilton has been giving his patrons what they desire, and this has made the Walnut the most popular amusement house of the kind in Louisville—one that old and young can safely visit.

has again been chosen President of that popular and successful young men's organization. President Beckmann has been closely identified with the club's undertakings and was largely instrumental in securing the fine club house on St. Catherine street. The members have donated their working togs and are preparing for the grandest hustling membership campaign in the history of the club, which will be inaugurated next Tuesday night. Directly after the meeting a cabaret entertainment will be given, for which the best talent in the city has been secured. There will be an abundance of refreshments and every member is urged to be present. President Beckmann says this will be only one of the series of celebrations to take place during the winter season, and the slogan will be "What Next?"

A barrel of water has also been taken along and is under the care of Capt. Rockne, a capable chemist.
